Contents

Introduction vii

PART I: DEFINITION OF INFORMATION NEED

Chapter 1 The Importance of Information Need 3
Chapter 2 The History of Information Need 7
Chapter 3 The Framework for Our Discussion 19
Chapter 4 Modeling the User in Information Search 23
Chapter 5 Information Seeking's Conceptualization of Information Need During Information Search 29
Chapter 6 Information Use 35
Chapter 7 Adaptation: Internal Information Flows and Knowledge Generation 49
Chapter 8 A Theory of Information Need 63

PART II: INFORMATION NEED IN PRE-FOCUS AND FOCUSING STAGES AND HOW IT WORKS

Chapter 9 How Information Need Works 95
Chapter 10 The User's Situation in the Pre-Focus Search 97
Chapter 11 The Situation of User's Information Need in Pre-Focus Information Search 105
Chapter 12 The Selection Concept 109
Chapter 13 A Review of the User's Pre-Focus Information Search 135
Chapter 14 How Information Need Works in a Focusing Search 139
Chapter 15 Circles 1 to 5: An Example of How Information Need Works 145
Chapter 16 Corroborating Research 165

PART III: APPLICATION OF THE THEORY OF INFORMATION NEED TO INFORMATION SYSTEM DESIGN

Chapter 17 Applying Information Need 173

Chapter 18 The Astrolabe: An Information System for Stage 3 Information Exploration 177

PART IV: CONCLUSION

Chapter 19 The Arc of an Information Need 189

References 197

About the Author 213

Index 215