

About the Author

Courtesy of Kristin Tomaiuolo

Nick Tomaiuolo earned his MLS at Southern Connecticut State University where he was named a Scholar of the School of Library Science and Instructional Technology, inducted into Beta Phi Mu (the International Library and Information Studies Honor Society), and has been designated a Distinguished Alumnus. He teaches online research skills courses for both Central Connecticut State University and the University of Maryland University College. Likes: database searching, literature, marottes, Stratocasters, theater, and travel. Dislikes: hubris, martinets, officiousness, opportunists, and technology for technology's sake. Nick also writes for Searcher Magazine. This is his second book for Information Today, Inc. His first book, The Web Library, was published in 2004.